2. Information requests by mail or contact form

If you contact Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG by post, email or via the contact form, we will save your information and the content of your request to answer it. We may also use your details to inform you of offers, new product alerts and further news. Please note that your data is not protected by default during transmission over the internet and is theoretically visible and accessible by unauthorized third parties.

3. Purpose of data collection, processing and usage

Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG (local court Straubing, HRA 1341) sells both its own products and services as an international concern and through its subsidiaries. The five business divisions of Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG are spacers, formwork technologies, reinforcement technologies, sealing technologies and building acoustics. The main purpose of data collection, in relation to the software, is license handling as well as internal research and statistical analysis to further improve our products and services.

4. Receivers, or categories of receivers, who may use the data collected

- Internal departments of Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG to fulfill the purposes listed in sections 2 and 3.
- Public authorities, which require the details due to legal regulations.
- It may be necessary to forward your details to branches, subsidiaries and sales partners of Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG to offer the most appropriate service to you.

5. Usage and disclosure of personal data

Any information collected by Max Frank GmbH & Co. KG will only be collected, used and processed for service purposes, which were provided by you for processing your requests. Your personal data will only be shared with carefully selected third parties, if it is absolutely necessary for a matter to be answered or with your written consent to do so.

6. Standard terms for data removal

Deletion of data takes place upon expiry of legal, statutory or contractually agreed periods of retention. Data, for which there are no periods of retention, will be deleted as soon as the purposes under section 3 are omitted.
